

Red sour grape powder, natural source of resveratrol, chromium, gallic acid and more

Raw, remote-source, red grapes are a rarity. Regular grapes are hybridized, which weakens their power. This is why Resvital is so unique, because it is from truly unaltered red grapes, the original kind from the remote regions of the Middle East. Furthermore, this is the early red grape, which is richer in resveratrol than the commercial types, plus since it is the sour type, it is also low in sugar.

Resvital is highly tart—a true sign of the density of its nutrients, especially the all-important polyphenols. Resveratrol is the most potent of these, but there are dozens of other powerful substances in Resvital that are essential for excellent health and also prevention. One of these is tartaric acid, which is a powerful antioxidant. Another is the mineral chromium, which is found in Resvital in dense amounts. As many as 60% of Americans are deficient in this key mineral, which in most sources is difficult to absorb. The type of chromium in Resvital is well utilized by the body. Chromium is much needed by the muscles, including the heart.

Finally, to realize all the powerful nutritional components found in grapes, you must find it in a top quality whole food source. Resvital is just that. It contains grapes that are completely remote-sourced, ensuring they are never tainted by man-made fungicides, pesticides, or other pollutants. Also, to ensure the highest level of benefit, the entire grape is used—the fruit, skin, seed, vine, and leaf. Resvital is the ultimate source of natural resveratrol, absorbable whole food chromium, natural organic acids and much, much more.

Directions: Take two or more capsules daily, or take ½ teaspoon or more of powder daily. Can be mixed in smoothies or sprinkled on foods. Resvital is a tasty, tart treat: enjoy. Great over fish or soup; add to any marinade.
